The biggest challenge facing small-business owners is finding enough time to run your business. Administrative details conspire to keep you from addressing the big picture.

You know that you need to get your business online, but who has time to figure out how to create a web page? Who wants to pay graphic artists and web developers to do the job for us?

Even if you do get online, there is no guarantee that anybody is going to find you.

You already understand the power of many. That's why you joined the Bellflower Chamber of Commerce. We understand it too.

The Chamber website was created a simple online application that anybody can use to create a sophisticated online presence. You don't have to understand HTML, web design, or graphics. What's more, you don't have to pay for expensive graphic artists or web developers.

We've even figured out how to avoid becoming a needle lost in a giant online haystack. Your Chamber's directory is now a fully searchable portal right to your business. We've supercharged the power of many by joining an entire region of Chambers of Commerce into a united alliance with interlocking directories. The power of your online presence has been increased by an order of magnitude.

We've brought all of this to you without stressing either your schedule or your pocketbook. You need only log-on to step into the future.
